Cellerant announces the 2019 Best of Class Technology Award winners

Out of all 25 winners, 14 are winning the award for the first time.

June 11, 2019

Cellerant Consulting Group is pleased to announce the 2019 Cellerant Best of Class Technology Award winners.

“We are entering a new era in dentistry—one that will change how we diagnose, treat and manage our patients and practices,” says Dr. Lou Shuman, CEO of Cellerant and founder of the Best of Class Technology Awards. “This was a breakthrough year in product and services technologies. The panel spent hundreds of hours in close discussion reviewing and analyzing the corporate landscape. Pay close attention to our winners as they are truly leading the way to provide you what is best in today's contemporary practice.”

“The Cellerant Best of Class Award creates an even playing field for dental manufacturers,” says Chris Salierno, DDS, Cellerant Best of Class panel member. “Major players stand next to start-ups and their technologies compete on innovation and disruption rather than marketing budgets and branding.”

The Cellerant Best of Class Technology Award is the only award of its kind, as it's covered by every major dental journal in North America and presented at the American Dental Association's Annual Meeting.

This year, winning products will be showcased at the 2019 ADA FDI World Dental Congress, which will be held in San Francisco from Sept. 5-7. Attendees will have the unique opportunity to experience the Best of Class technologies first-hand at the ADA meeting as well as hear the panel members lecture on these products at the Digital Future of Dentistry Technology Expo. The expo also features free continuing education taught by the leading experts in technology integration and social media. More information can be found online at ada.org/meeting.
